Introduction

On 28-02-2023 the department of physics conducted online webinar at 3.30pm and the resource person is Dr. A. Mallikarjuna, Radiation Safety Office, Asian Institute of Gastroenterology, Hyderabad. The title of the webinar “Radiation Physics and Its Applications” The webinar begins with the introduction of National Science day and its importance by the Principal Dr.K.Mahaboob Basha garu and later Dr. M.Suseelamma, IQAC Coordinator explained the radiation physics concepts in brief. The webinar begins at 2.55 pm and ends at 4.15pm. All the science students are actively participated in webinar. Last 15 minutes of the webinar is open for the questions. Students were more enthusiastically asked their questions and our Resource Dr.A.Mallikarjuna sir well explained with examples. After the successful completion of the webinar the prize distribution programme was takes place.

Highlights

The webinar on radiation physics and its applications was a resounding success, providing a platform for knowledge exchange and fostering a deeper understanding of this intricate field. Dr.A.mallikarjuna delivered a highly informative presentation that illuminated the fundamental principles and diverse applications of radiation physics, leaving attendees better equipped to comprehend the significance of radiation in our daily lives.

Outcome:

this webinar served as a valuable resource for all those seeking to expand their knowledge of radiation physics and its manifold applications. It underscored the importance of radiation safety and ethical considerations while harnessing the potential of radiation in various sectors. The event's success encourages further exploration and research in this vital field, with the hope of harnessing radiation for the betterment of society while ensuring its responsible use.
