Name of the Activity: Plantation Program

Name of the department: NSS

No. of students involved: 45 Students and Faculty

Name of the resource person invited/ Name of the place visited: NA

Objectives:

1. Commercial Profit: Many plantations are established with the primary objective of generating a profit. Plantation owners cultivate crops that have high market demand, such as coffee, tea, rubber, oil palm, or timber, and aim to maximize their yields and revenue.
2. Sustainable Resource Management: Some plantations focus on sustainable resource management. They aim to cultivate crops in a way that ensures the long-term health and productivity of the land, conserving natural resources, and minimizing environmental impact.
3. Employment and Economic Development: Plantations often serve as sources of employment for local communities. Creating jobs and contributing to the local economy can be a key objective, particularly in rural areas.
4. Diversification of Agriculture: Plantations can contribute to diversifying agricultural activities in a region by introducing new crops or techniques. This can reduce the dependence on a single crop and enhance food security.
